ON THE COVER

Trudnak, Farmer, Bullard, Kemp, White—these and other names that spark gridiron memories at Lenoir Rhyne sounded once again from the stadium public address system when Lenoir Rhyne honored its 16 All-Americans of the past during the 1964 Homecoming. Heading the list of 12 athletes present for the event was Dr. James Garrett, shown receiving a gift football from Student Body Vice-president Mark Cooper. Garrett, a Bear tackle in 1939, is now director of mathematicians for tracking space rockets at Cape Kennedy.

FOOTBALL — '33 Style

By GEORGE CHAPMAN

With the coming of cool weather and news of football practice creeping into the newspapers, I found my thoughts going back thirty years to my last season of football at Lenoir Rhyne. It started when our son announced that he was going out for the high school football team. He is a husky lad and will be able to take it.

The first week Edward practiced twice a week (how hot the sun can be in early September!) The conditioning exercises sounded as excruciatingly painful today as they were thirty years ago. In the evenings we would go over the formations and plays he was learning, and I would shed the weight of thirty years and long to be back on the practice field again.

George Chapman, an end on the 1933 Lenoir Rhyne football team and business manager of the 1933 Hacawa, is now a senior member of the law firm of Rogers, Hoge & Hills in New York City. He is also president of the Lenoir Rhyne Alumni Chapter in New York City.

We had a pretty good team in 1933 although we won only three, tied three and lost three. "Wig" Hemphill, the captain, played center. He was flanked by Rex Reynolds, George Poovey and Red Ritchie at guards, Stasavich, "Bud" Geitner and Cliff Icard at tackle. Don Padgett and "Jess" Bumgarner were the ends and I got to play sometimes if one of them got tired or tripped over a blade of grass and injured himself. "Bus" Newton was our star halfback and big "Bob" Poovey, the fullback. "Buck" Mauney, "Skinney" Carpenter and "Mike" Whitener were our quarterbacks. And the back field was rounded out with halfbacks "Sonny" Overcash, "Bill" Mills, and "Red" Mauney.

After thirty years, most of the games that season are something of a blur. Incidents in a few, however, I shall never forget. After tying P. C. 7 to 7, beating Western Carolina 27 to 0 and losing to Wofford by only one point we had a "breather" with Tennessee Wesleyan. We were leading them by a score of 6 to 0 and felt comfortable in the thought that we could score again most any time we wanted to. Along in the third quarter, Coach Shores sent me in to substitute for Bumgarner who had probably grown weary by then. We were around our forty yard line; it was fourth down and we had to kick. For some reason, Don Padgett was called to punt. Now Don was a marvelous all around athlete and could do most anything but he was not our best kicker. Also, he kicked with his left foot which may be why he was called on to do so. He kicked and down the field went the ball like a bullet, about ten feet off the ground and over the head of the receiving quarterback. I streaked down the field at full speed. Soon I found myself on the ten yard line; the quarterback had recovered the ball and was protected by only one blocker. Visions of heroism filled my head. I faked at the blocker and then lunged for the ball carrier. By some miracle, he escaped my outstretched arms and started up the field. By the time I regained my footing, he was crossing the fifty yard line; when I next got a good view of him he was past the goal line. That way the game ended, a 6 to 6 tie.

Another game that stands out in my memory was with Rollins in Orlando, Florida. Most of us had never been to Florida before and the trip down by bus was filled with excitement and much fun. In the first half we were still excited and played sloppily. They scored thirteen points. In the second half, we didn't let them cross the fifty yard line and completely outplayed them. As the fourth quarter was drawing to a close we still needed seven points to tie them. All fall we had been practicing a play for such a desperate situation. The time had now come to run it. "Wig" snapped the ball to Stasavich who had dropped back six inches from his tackle position. "Stas" was fast in those days and a bit outsized. Being right next door to "Wig" he caught the snap perfectly, tucked the ball under his arm, as he had seen the backs do, and headed for pay dirt. The Rollins team was caught completely by surprise. "Stas" had an open field ahead of him and we were sure of a tie. When he reached a broad white line that looked like a goal line should look, he stopped and grinning from ear to ear put the ball on the ground for a score. The referee blew his whistle and signaled first and ten. The field we were playing on was the spring practice field of one of the major league baseball teams. What "Stas" had thought was the goal line was the right field foul line. Time ran out before we were able to make the ten needed yards so we lost that one 13 to 6.

The Catawba game was a cold, dreary and disappointing affair. During our entire four years they were coached by Charlie Moran who had won fame as the coach of the "Praying Colonels" of Center College. We had never beaten him and wanted so much to do so our last year. But we had to settle for a scoreless tie and the cold satisfaction that his team had not beaten us again.

After the game, those of us who had played our last were slow to unsuit and shower. "Wig" Hemphill remarked that he had just finished eight years of football and asked "Bus" Newton how many he had played. After "Bus" counted and said he had played nine years "Wig" asked: "What are you going to say to your son when he asks you to teach him to be a football hero like you were at Lenoir Rhyne?" Without a moment's hesitation, "Bus" replied, "I'm going to spank him good and tell him to go back in the house and practice on the piano."

My son has played the clarinet since sixth grade, he sings in the chorus and has leading roles in school plays. I was far from a football hero at Lenoir Rhyne in the fall of 1933 but I enjoyed being in good condition, the trips, the comradeship of the others on the team, the practice sessions and most of all the games. I hope my son gets as much fun out of the game as I did.

Record 1200 Students Enroll For 1964-65 Year

Lenoir Rhyne College opened its 74th session this fall with a record enrollment of 1,212 students. The registration represents an increase of 70 students over the fall semester enrollment of last year.

Most of the students are North Carolinians. The 1,021 Tar Heels represent 84 percent of the student body. However, twenty other states and three foreign territories are represented.

Virginia claims 35 students to head the list of out-of-state groups. Florida and South Carolina come second with 28 students each followed by Pennsylvania with 20. There are also 14 students from New Jersey, 13 from Maryland, 11 from Ohio and 12 from Georgia.

Other states represented are Tennessee, New York, Massachusetts, Alabama, Louisiana, Connecticut, Illinois, Delaware, Texas, Arkansas, Indiana, and the District of Columbia.

The three students with foreign residences come from the Canal Zone, Canada and Japan.

Fifty-four counties in North Carolina are represented in the student body, with the home county of Catawba leading the list with 375 students.

Other counties with sizable delegations are Burke 78; Caldwell, 56; Mecklenburg, 53; Iredell, 52; Rowan, 46; Gaston, 43; Lincoln, 42; Guilford, 33; Cabarrus, 31; Forsythe, 28; Alexander, 23; Stanly 15; Davidson, 15; Cleveland, 12; and Buncombe, 10.

Business, elementary teaching and science are the most popular areas of study on the campus, according to the statistics.

The 301 students majoring in business include 221 business administration majors, 32 business education majors, 24 economics majors, 18 one-year commercial students and six two-year commercial students.

Students preparing to teach in elementary grades of the public school system number 219 and make up the second largest major group.

A total of 205 students are majoring in some area of science. The group includes 67 nursing students, 54 mathematics majors, 42 biology majors, 14 chemistry majors, 12 medical technology students, 10 pre-medical students, three physics majors and three general science majors.

Enrollments in other major fields were also reported: English, 105; sociology, 92; physical education, 70; history, 54; music, 21; Spanish, 11; religious education, 7; French, 6; German, 3; pre-law, 2; and special education, 1. Students who did not declare a major during the fall registration number 113.

MISS MARTHA SUMMERS was crowned Lenoir Rhyne Homecoming Queen during half-time festivities of the Lenoir Rhyne-Western Carolina football game on Oct. 24. The Statesville senior was crowned by Mark Cooper, vice-president of the student body. A sociology major, she plans to pursue graduate student in social work following her graduation next spring.

Sophomores, numbering 329, make up the largest class on the campus this year. There are 322 freshmen, 283 juniors, 246 seniors, 18 one year students and 14 special students.

Classified by church affiliation, the students break up into 13 different denominations. Lutherans continue to form the largest group, numbering 578 and representing 47 percent of the total student body. Baptists number 241, Methodist number 189, and Presbyterians number 104. Twelve students report no church affiliation.

For the second time since World War II, women outnumber men in the Lenoir Rhyne student body. There are 651 women students, a majority of 90 over the number of men students. (The men-women ratio is influenced by the fact that the college now has more dormitory accommodations for women.)

Other items in the statistical report show there are 632 students living on campus and that 162 of the students are married.

Honors Gridiron Stars

Lenoir Rhyne college paid tribute to its 16 All-American football players of the past as a highlight of its 1964 Homecoming Day program on Oct. 24.

Twelve of the gridiron greats were present for the event and were presented souvenir footballs during half-time festivities of the Homecoming football game.

Those in attendance were Dr. James Garrett, 1939 tackle and eldest of the group, now living in Indialantic, Fla.; Steve Trudnak, 1952 fullback who lives at Dallas; Arden Ray, 1955 guard from Mt. Pleasant; Bill Johnson, 1958 guard, and Lee Farmer, 1959 tailback, both from Vale; Charles Sanders, 1959 tackle who lives at Monroe; Adam Maples, 1960 blocking back who lives in Charlotte; Ronnie Frye, 1961, end from Hickory; Richard Kemp, 1962 fullback of Charlotte; Odell White, 1962 tailback, also of Charlotte; Jim Edmiston, 1962 guard from Salisbury; and Howard Barnhardt, 1963 center from Landis.

Three All-Americans were unable to be present because of coaching engagements: Harold Bullard, 1957 fullback from Greenville; Joe Murphy, 1958 center from Glendora, N. J.; and Dick Lage, 1960 end from Enterprise, Pa. One member of the select group, Gus Arndt, a 1940 halfback, was killed during World War II.

The Homecoming game ceremonies also honored Miss Martha Summers of Statesville, the Homecoming Queen elected by Lenoir Rhyne students this fall. The sociology senior plans to pursue graduate study next year.

The ceremonies were conducted in the newly-renovated football stadium before 7,500 Homecoming fans. Visiting Western Carolina dashed Lenoir Rhyne hopes of regaining the conference football crown by handing the Bears their first conference loss of the season, 14-13. It left Lenoir Rhyne with a 2-1 conference record and a 2-4 overall record. Four games, two of them conference contests, remained on the Bear schedule.

The night football game climaxed a Homecoming Day schedule which opened NEWCOMERS to the Lenoir Rhyne faculty this year are (left to right, seated) Prof. Charles F. Cooke, physics; Jerry E. Bolick, mathematics; Miss Mary Louise Gore, education; Prof. Glenn E. in the morning when returning alumni began registering. In the afternoon, the filmed showing of 1963 football highlights was followed by a 75-unit parade which started on the campus and circled through downtown Hickory.

Three beauties appearing in the parade (Miss North Carolina, Miss Hickory and the Homecoming Queen) were honored at a reception in the college center following the parade. Music by the Lemon Grove 4 on the patio of the center provided entertainment until the traditional barbecue dinner was served.

Following the football game, Lenoir Rhyne students entertained alumni and other visitors at a Homecoming dance in the college center.

Picked For 'Who's Who'

Twenty-one Lenoir Rhyne seniors have been named to appear in the 1964-65 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities."

Heading the list of students selected for the honor are Miss Betty Pugh of Asheboro, president of the senior class; Mike Olson of Falls Church, Va., editor of the Lenoir Rhynean; William Fenimore of Norristown, Pa., business manager of the student newspaper; Miss Joanne Hunter of Charlotte and Miss Hazel Mackie of Salisbury, co-editors of the Hacawa; and Miss Johnnie Schrum of Lincolnton, treasurer of the student body.

Another student leader, Larry Yoder of Lincolnton, president of the student body, was listed in the 1963-64 edition when a member of the junior class.

Other seniors whose names will appear in the publication are Miss Linda Allred of Burlington, Perry Beaver of China Grove, Joel Brown of Rural Retreat, Va., Bill Dreikorn of Johnstown, Pa., Michael Griggs of Newton, Miss Alva Lee Herman of Conover, Miss Christina Janz of Jacksonville, Fla., Miss Judy Kelley of Belmont, Edgar Ketchie of Kannapolis, Miss Naomi Knaul of Melbourne, Fla., Miss Linda Martin of Belmont, Miss Joyce Plonk of Kings Mountain, Miss Martha Summers of Statesville, Ronald Vigue of Charlotte, and Charles Yount of Rocky Mount.

The students were selected on the basis of participation in student activities, scholarship, contribution to the college, and promise of future success.

The contenders for the honor were recommended by a nine-member committee made up of administration officials, professors, and students from Lenoir Rhyne.

Nine Join Faculty

Lenoir Rhyne college opened its 74th academic year this fall with nine newcomers to the faculty. They will teach courses in education, English, dramatics, nursing, biology, mathematics, chemistry, physics and religious studies.

The new professors are the Rev. Joe D. Glass of Kannapolis, assistant professor of religious studies; Charles F. Cooke of Hildebran, assistant professor of physics; Glenn E. Whitesides of Chester, S. C., assistant professor of English; Miss Mary Louise Gore of North Hollywood, Calif., assistant professor of education; Samuel M. Baker of Zebulon, Ga., assistant professor of English and dramatics; Mrs. Helen G. Wolford of Rutherfordton, assistant professor of nursing; Jerry B. Ayers of Atlanta, Ga., instructor in chemistry; William R. Fryar of Tallahassee, Fla., instructor in biology; and Jerry E. Bolick of Granite Falls, instructor in mathematics.

Two of the nine appointments represent additions to the Lenoir Rhyne teaching staff. The others replace faculty members who have resigned or are on leave of absence.

Those who have resigned are Mrs. W. S. Berryhill, Jr., assistant professor of biology; Prof. Paul A. Reichle, acting head of the physics department; Dr. Betty Spence, associate professor of education; and Prof. George J. Spence, assistant professor of drama and speech. Three other professors are on leave of absence: Mrs. Harold Hawn of the mathematics department; Dr. David Y. P. Chou of the chemistry department, who is engaged in research at the University of Kansas; and Dr. Lester D. Keasey of the religious studies department, who is pursuing post-doctoral studies at the University of Minnesota.

The five newcomers appointed to assistant professor rank have completed their residence requirements for the Ph.D. degree.

Rev. Mr. Glass, who will receive his doctor degree from Yale university next spring, graduated from Duke university in 1957 and from Lutheran Theological Southern seminary three years later. Prior to assuming graduate studies at Yale in 1961, he served as assistant pastor at Beth Eden Lutheran church in Newton.

Professor Cooke, a Ph.D. degree candidate at the University of North Carolina, graduated from Lenoir Rhyne in 1959. Since that time he has pursued studies at Chapel Hill where he has held a graduate assistantship and several summer instructorships.

Professor Whitesides, a Ph.D. degree candidate at Florida State university, received his undergraduate education at Erskine college. Since 1958, he has been associated with Florida State, either as a graduate assistant or instructor in the English department.

Miss Gore, who completed Ph.D degree requirements during the summer at the University of Southern California, earned her bachelor degree at the University of California at Los Angeles in 1944 and two years later received the master degree at the same institution. Following her undergraduate training, she taught in the public schools of Southern California and served as instructor at Orange State college at Fullerton, Calif.

Professor Baker, who completed residence requirements for the doctor degree during the summer at Florida State university, holds other degrees from LaGrange college in Georgia and the University of Georgia. Prior to starting his doctoral studies in 1960, he served for one year on the administrative staff of LaGrange college and for two years on the faculty of Young Harris college in Georgia.

Mrs. Wolford, who joined the nursing faculty, will teach psychiatric nursing, relieving Lenoir Rhyne nursing students of the need to take this course in Washington, D. C., as they have for the past four years. She taught psychiatric nursing for the past seven years in the University of California School of Nursing Medical Center at San Francisco. Previously, she taught as a vocational nursing instructor in San Francisco for three years and served as a nurse for three years in Denver, Colo., and Battle Creek, Mich.

Mr. Ayers, who received his M.S. degree at the University of Georgia in the summer, graduated from Oglethorpe university in 1959. Following undergraduate studies, he served as associate physicist with Union Carbide Nuclear company in Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Mr. Fryar received his B.S. degree in biology at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville in 1962. Since then he has been associated with Florida State university as a teaching assistant and graduate assistant while earning the M.S. degree which he completed last spring.

Mr. Bolick completed work on the M.S. degree at Clemson college during the summer. He graduated from Lenoir Rhyne in 1963.

Elected LSAA Advisor

The Rev. Robert G. Walker, chaplain of Lenoir Rhyne, was elected one of two clerical advisors of the Lutheran Student Association in America during council sessions of the international organization held in Valparaiso, Ind., in August.

The Lenoir Rhyne faculty member will serve as a member of the LSAA executive board and attend its three meetings scheduled during the year in Chicago and Minneapolis.

The other clerical advisor elected by the college student representatives was the Rev. Joseph W. Ottoson, St. Cloud, Minn.

Notes About Alumni

'95 The Rev. C. K. Lippard, 93, a retired missionary of the Lutheran Church in America, died on July 20 in Philadelphia, Pa. A member of the first class to enroll at Lenoir Rhyne, he was educated at Chicago Lutheran seminary in Chicago, Ill., and served as a missionary in Japan for 44 years.
